

TECH PREP

What is tech prep? Tech Prep is a federally funded education program that operates throughout the State of Washington. It enables high school students to earn tuition free college credit for certain eligible classes without ever leaving their high school. The Issaquah School District has partnered with three consortiums to offer many options for earning credit. Eligible Liberty courses are as follows:

Accounting	Preschool Internship
Child Psychology	Sales and Marketing
Construction Tech	Software Tech
Culinary Arts	Sports Medicine
Health or Health Online	Teaching Academy
Intro to Engineering	Welding
Material Science	Woodworking

Tech Prep provides huge savings on college tuition and allows you to get an early start on your college classes!

To find out what credit is available through the College Credit and Careers Network (formerly Northeast Tech Prep Consortium) click here:

Partner colleges include Green River Community College, Renton Technical College or Highline Community College.

Material Science is eligible for tech prep credit through the Edmonds Tech Prep Consortium (Edmonds CC MatSci155 for 5 credits).

How does it work?

After you have enrolled in a class go to the appropriate consortium website and complete the online registration form. Print one copy of the form for your records and make sure you earn a “B” grade or higher in your class! Registration deadlines for classes taken during the 2008-2009 school year are as follows:
